STATE'S WEEKEND TOLL REACHES TEN

CROWDS SEEK RELIEF FROM HEAT IN OHIO

Landslide, Murder Included in Death Toll; Several Are Drowned

TRAFFIC TAKES TOLL

Two Suicides Are Reported in Columbus

By International News Service
Driving thousands to swimming pools and highways in search of relief, a merciless heat took at least 10 Ohio lives over the week-end, a check-up by International News Service showed today.

A landslide, a murder that followed a holdup, and a suicide resulted in three other deaths.

Don Patterson, 24, popular "Lonesome Luke" entertainer of Station WSMK at Dayton, lost his life in a public swimming pool while trying to escape the high temperature.

KILLED IN POOL
He struck his head on the bottom of the pool and was fatally injured, it was said. His body was found only after two hours of searching. Patterson's home is at Carey, O., where funeral services will be held.

Mrs. Ellen Allen, 69, of Columbus, died from the heat although she did not leave her home. While sitting on the front porch at her home, she fell dead. She was the first Columbus heat victim of the year.

While on a fishing expedition in the Ohio river, near Racine, O., Vester and Glenn Clark, 17 and 10, were drowned. Their rowboat upset and they were unable to get to shore.

While swimming near his home, Garwood Goss, 32, a Wellington, O., farmer, was drowned. Reuben Edms., a 14-year-old nephew who was unable to swim, stood by, helpless to rescue him.

An unidentified man who left a freight train and went swimming in the Ohio river was drowned in the Ohio river at Cincinnati. Papers found in his pocket gave his name as "J. Ogden Candy."

Cincinnati also had two heat prostrations. Steve Kollison, 35, dropped dead on the street. Alexander Elsen, 83, who collapsed at his home, was expected to recover.

While trying to escape from the heat in an automobile ride, Don-

2 BLAZES DO MUCH DAMAGE

Cain Service Station Gutted; Madison-7 Is Destroyed by Fire.

Two fires, the cause of both unknown and damage unestimated in either, occurred in the northern part of Pickaway-co. one Monday morning, the other near midnight Saturday.

The Monday blaze was on the Delaplaine farm four miles north of South Bloomfield where the service station operated by W. Guy Cain of Ashville, was completely gutted. Mr. Cain was alone in his station, and had walked outside. When he returned the entire interior was as fire.

He saw that nothing could be done to prevent the spread of the flames and did not call a fire department as the Ashville company was nearest and by the time it arrived the flames would have completely destroyed the contents of the building.

The Cain station is well known to many persons on this community as it is located in the old schoolhouse on the east side of the Scioto Trail. Mr. Cain could not estimate the loss.

HOUSE DESTROYED
The other fire was at the home of Lester Burke in Madison-twp which was completely destroyed by flames of unknown origin. The entire house of seven rooms and all the furniture was ruined.

Mr. and Mrs. Burke and their four children had gone to Lithopolis Saturday evening. The flames were discovered by a passer-by. The Ashville fire department was summoned but before any assistance could be offered the building was burned to the ground. The Ashville fire squad succeeded in preventing damage to other buildings.

It is understood the house and contents were insured.

REPORT IS UNTRUE

A report being circulated about the streets of Circleville, Monday that C. F. Zaenglein, popular instructor of manual training and director of the newly-organized school band, has resigned was branded as untrue by Charles H. May, president of the city board of education.

SEN. SPANGLER TO FIGHT CUT IN PARK FUND

Voice of Conservation Workers Heard by Governor White Today

TERM SLICE ILLEGAL

Appeal Made to Save State Lakes, Parks

COLUMBUS, O., June 22.—Conservation workers appealed to Governor George White today in an effort to prevent proposed cuts in the biennial budget of state lakes and parks.

Senator William I. Spangler, Democrat of Pickaway-co, prominent conservation enthusiast, told Finance Director Howard Bevis and the governor's secretary Al Crouse that the reduction ordered by the finance committees of the house and senate cannot be legally carried out.

"The money realized from game licenses cannot be used for anything but conservation expenditures according to statute and there is no need to order these cuts for that reason," he said.

It was understood that Governor White would give immediate consideration to his objection.

Nearly every state lake and state park suffered recently when the committees started ordering reductions.

ONLY SLIGHT RELIEF FROM HEAT GAINED; MERCURY NEAR 100

Half Inch of Rainfall Recorded by Dr. Clarke Sunday Evening.

WHEAT IS DAMAGED

Mark of 99 is Reached Saturday Afternoon

With the three hottest days of the year reported Friday, Saturday and Sunday when temperatures were 97, 99 and 96, only slight relief was noticed Monday after rainfall Sunday night which totalled one-half inch. Dr. H. C. Clarke's thermometer's were almost broken over the weekend when the mercury persisted in climbing to the top in an effort to reach new marks.

The coolest mark in the three days was recorded during Sunday night after the rain had subsided when the temperature fell to 65 degrees. This was only for a short time however because the mercury was climbing Monday morning, giving every indication that the day would be another scorcher.

STORM FEARED

Fear was expressed early Sunday evening that a storm of major proportions would strike the city Sunday evening or early Monday but most of the storm clouds passed over the city, only a gentle rain falling here during the evening.

For a time clouds were rapidly forming over the city in formations which forbode a possible cyclone, but they fortunately passed over the city. A very welcome rain followed the threatened storm.

While Circleville was receiving one-half inch of rainfall with only a small wind, other parts of the country were not so fortunate. H. S. Lewis, county farm agent, reported Monday that several persons had notified the farm bureau of wheat being blown down in various parts of the country. Jackson-twp and Washington-twp both reported damage and word came from the Orient vicinity that damage followed a strong wind-storm there.

Whether wheat, blown down, will regain its height is questionable, the county agent reports, for it has gained more weight now and its chances to recover are not so good as they were even one week ago.

PARK NEED FELT

The streets of the city were almost abandoned Sunday when every person who could find a way sought relief in bathing pools or creeks through the county and in adjoining cities. The fact was lamented numerous times Sunday that Circleville does not have a place to swim. The need of a city or community park has been greatly stressed over this past weekend.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF FRANCE TAKEN
PARIS, June 22.—Clement-Arnaud Fallieres, former President of France, died today at his home at Villeneuve de Mezin, at the age of ninety.

M. Fallieres began his political career as Mayor of Merauc, in the department of Lot-et-Garonne and in 1876 represented his department in the Chamber of Deputies. He held many offices, finally becoming President of the Republic in 1906, retiring at the end of his term in 1913.

SENATOR'S TASK OF CATCHING MACKS SEEMS HOPELESS ONE

NEW YORK, June 22.—Catching the Philadelphia Athletics is such a back-breaking task that no one would blame the Washington Senators for tossing in the sponge right now.

The Senators ran their string of consecutive victories to 12 games during the past week. But checking over the results of the past seven days, they discovered this morning that their record of five wins in seven starts cost them a full game in the American League pennant chase, for the Mackmen won five straight games during that period.

This morning Washington was four full games behind the world's champions. The Yankees, losing ground steadily, dropped three out of five during the week and are now hopelessly out of it.

The New York Giants, Brooklyn and the Phillies featured the week in the National League, each club winning four out of six games. As a result the Giants are only 2½ games behind the Cards, who won four games during the week but dropped three straight to the Braves.

Just why Grove and Earnshaw are poison to other American League clubs was illustrated in Chicago yesterday when the famous pitching duet of the Athletics put on their act in negotiating a 6 to 5 win over the White Sox. With the bases loaded in the ninth, Grove, who chalked up his 12th win of the season only last Friday, calmly stepped to the mound and stopped the next two

SUBURBAN LOOP CHASE IS CLOSE

The New Albany club nosed out Groveport 3 to 1 and Lithophus defeated Valley Crossing 11 to 8 in other Sunday Suburban contests.

ALL-STARS WIN
Reynold Greene's Circleville All-Stars won another recreation ball game at Columbus Sunday afternoon defeating the Weasel Club, 11-3. Because of the extremely hot weather only one game was played.

Ray Smith pitched for the local outfit and blanked the Columbus team after the second inning. Sherm Barr handled his tosses.

Ike Brungs contributed a home run to the All-Stars cause.

Next Sunday a game will be played at Utilities field by the All-Stars.

DISMISSED, NOT SETTLED

Stein, deceased,' was dismissed by the plaintiff at her own cost according to an entry filed in the office of the clerk of courts. batters cold, enabling Earnshaw to record his 12th straight victory.

Wes Ferrell, Cleveland ace, hung up his 10th triumph of the campaign in winning a 3 to 1 duel from Crowder of Washington, giving the Indians an even break in the series.

The St. Louis Browns, who had lost nine straight games, turned savagely on the Yankees, knocking Pipgras and Gomez out of the box and taking both twos of a twin bill, 9 to 7 and 8 to 2. Seven New York errors offset homers by Gehrig, Ruth, Lazzeri and Lary. Gehrig's circuit blow was his 14th of the year and his third in three days, while Ruth's was his 13th of the campaign. Stewart and Herbert, the rookie star, pitched for the Browns.

A homer by Earl Webb staked the Red Sox to a 7 to 6 decision over Detroit.

Boots by Jackson and Marshall gave Pittsburgh a 5 to 4 victory over the Giants in the 11th inning, climaxing a comedy of errors in which eight misplays were made.

Hubby Chased?

Mrs. Peter Arno (above), prominent in New York literary life under the name of Lois "Lipsyck" Long, has the unique distinction of having a husband, Peter Arno, fashionier of ultra-sophisticated cartoons, who is alleged to have been chased by Cornelius Vanderbilt and his empty pistol in a Reno melodrama, which has ended with Vanderbilt suing his wife for divorce. Peter is accused by Cornelius of paying attention to Mrs. Vanderbilt. If Vanderbilt's suit is filed, a divorce which Arno is seeking may be delayed indefinitely, authorities say.

There is always room at the top without pushing anyone off. No merit is so big that it can stand boasting. It is other people's faults that you should forgive, not your own. It is your own suffering that you should bear, not that of others. The path of self-denial is the way to peace of heart.

MAN, WIFE KILLED
PELHAM MANOR, N. Y., June 22.—Wreckage of a cabin monoplane on one of the rolling fairways of the Pelham Country club here today bore mute evidence to the tragedy which yesterday took the lives of Myron F. Hutchinson, 28, of Elmira, N. Y., and his bride of less than a year.

Flying from Boston to Roosevelt Field, L. I., the plane lost altitude, struck the top limb of a tree on the golf course and dove into the turf a few yards from where hundreds of spectators had congregated to watch a golf match. Hutchinson, who was piloting the plane, was killed instantly. His wife was injured so seriously she died a short time later in New Rochelle hospital.

CONFESSES KILLING
AKRON, O., June 22.—Oscar Tamgulla, 37, of Youngstown, today allegedly confessed, police said, that he shot and killed Patrolman Forest L. Good, 34, during a street fight here last night.

The confession was written, authorities stated. Tamgulla, himself badly wounded in the fight, was arrested by Patrolman Harry Munn early today, several hours after the shooting.

A second man, suspected by police as being Tamgulla's companion in the attack, was captured by a radio cruiser squad shortly after the alleged confession was obtained from the Youngstown man. Identity of the second man was not revealed.

It would suit many a man if he could dodge responsibility like he does automobiles.

Mrs. Peter Arno (above), prominent in New York literary life under the name of Lois "Lipsyck" Long, has the unique distinction of having a husband, Peter Arno, fashionier of ultra-sophisticated cartoons, who is alleged to have been chased by Cornelius Vanderbilt and his empty pistol in a Reno melodrama, which has ended with Vanderbilt suing his wife for divorce. Peter is accused by Cornelius of paying attention to Mrs. Vanderbilt. If Vanderbilt's suit is filed, a divorce which Arno is seeking may be delayed indefinitely, authorities say.

WASHINGTON BANK PAYS DIVIDEND
The Ohio State Bank at Washington C. H., which was closed May 12, for liquidation, will pay its first dividend of 10 per cent to depositors June 30, bank officials announced today. The dividend will total $153,000.

Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the defunct bank, is under sentence of 10 years in Ohio Penitentiary for alleged misapplication of the bank's funds. Daugherty is at liberty under bond on an appeal from conviction.

CONFESSES KILLING
AKRON, O., June 22.—Oscar Tamgulla, 37, of Youngstown, today allegedly confessed, police said, that he shot and killed Patrolman Forest L. Good, 34, during a street fight here last night.

The confession was written, authorities stated. Tamgulla, himself badly wounded in the fight, was arrested by Patrolman Harry Munn early today, several hours after the shooting.

A second man, suspected by police as being Tamgulla's companion in the attack, was captured by a radio cruiser squad shortly after the alleged confession was obtained from the Youngstown man. Identity of the second man was not revealed.

It would suit many a man if he could dodge responsibility like he does automobiles.

MANY STATES AID MOTORISTS WITH HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS

With the exception of street improvements, things are being done this year for the motorist on a larger scale than ever before.

Cities, states and counties, even those that have been comparatively inactive, are taking advantage of the prevailing low construction and building material costs.

Louisiana, for instance, has already this year awarded contracts for the building of 900 miles of concrete pavements, and the end is not yet in sight. Included in the Louisiana program are four bridges and two incidental projects which will cost in the neighborhood of $2,500,000.

Texas, with the largest mileage of rural roads, nearly 188,000 miles, has already awarded contracts for the construction of 500 miles of concrete pavement, nearly as much as New York's 1931 awards. Last week alone South Carolina let contracts for the hard surfacing of about 100 miles of road, while Alabama is staging a comeback by having awarded 130 miles to construct.

In Dayton, O., the B & O is to spend more than a million dollars for track elevation and railroad grade crossing separations in order to cooperate with the city in its construction of a downtown grade separation project. Altogether seven or eight viaducts will be built.

Another notable Ohio improvement will be the construction of a section of the National Road to a width of 50 feet in Columbus and Bexley.

Arkansas has already this year awarded contracts for the building of some 270 miles of concrete, while the sister state, Kansas, has 125 miles enrolled on her construction books.

Wisconsin, known as the land of contented cows and farmers, has taken action to build 300 miles of concrete pavement, and has a grade separation program that calls for the building of 80 of these life and time saving structures.

And now it is heard that San Francisco is contemplating the building of a $21,000,000 subway system for the relief of congestion in providing needed motoring.

Yet in the face of the present lowered costs, only a few cities are making noteworthy progress in providing needed motoring facilities. New wide streets, widened streets, grade separations and pedestrian tunnels are so greatly needed that highway and traffic authorities are everywhere urging municipalities to plan immediate construction.

C. M. T. C. BEGINS AT INDIANA ARMY POST

FT. BENJ. HARRISON, Ind., June 22—The seventh citizens' training camp to be held here opened today with an enrollment of approximately 100 young men from the states of Indiana, Ohio, Kentucky and West Virginia.

The entire day has been spent in examining the young trainees and issuing government uniforms, thus transferring the young men from a civilian status into military life. Hundreds of the youngsters were in line early this morning to make the transformation to the life of a soldier for the next month.

The training camp this year will close on July 18, and during the month previous the young men will be trained by regular army and reserve officers in drill, organized athletics, parades, rifle marksmanship, military courtesy and discipline. Some of the youngsters will pursue a course of instruction in signal training and a special course in radio.

While military training, which will include drill and rifle marksmanship, will comprise a greater part of the training during the morning hours, organized athletics and a baseball tournament will consume the afternoon hours. A field and track meet will be held on July 13, in which all the young trainees from every unit will participate. On July 4, Visitor's Day will be observed by a parade at 10:00 a. m., and the rest of the day will be given to every man to entertain his guests on that day. On July 17, competitive drills, regimental drills, regimental review and the presentation of medals and trophies, will conclude the month's vacation. The next day will be spent by the trainees in turning in equipment and uniforms and back to their cities.

The citizens' training camp here has been very popular during the past six years and from all indications, the youngsters, who are here this year, will enjoy one of the best vacations they have ever experienced. Over fifty percent of the trainees this year are "repeaters" it is stated, which in itself is an excellent indication of the popularity of the citizens training camp.

JOHNSON PRINTING SERVICE IS FINE

"Good printing at reasonable prices" is the motto of the Paul A. Johnson Printing Service located at 124 S. Court-st.

This printing service is one of the best offered in Circleville. Mr. Johnson has been in the printing business for seventeen years, fourteen of which has been spent in Circleville. He owns his own place of business which houses a most competent printing plant. He employs competent and experienced workmen, and as a result completes all of his jobs in the time specified by the order.

He has modern typesetting machines and can make illustrations from mats furnished him.

Mr. Johnson is kept busy at all times getting out the many orders of job printing which comes to his shop.

Every business man in Circleville who has had work done at Mr. Johnson's place has always been satisfied with the work.

Another feature of this shop is the sale and rent of typewriters. Mr. Johnson generally has a number of new and old typewriters on hand at all times for sale and rent. He also conducts a repair typewriter department.

At this time of the year many students are making plans and arrangements and are possibly contemplating entering college next fall. There is no better way to make better grades than to type all the required school work. Typewriters are rented by Mr. Johnson at the rate of four months for $10. Typewriters may also be purchased here at reasonable prices. Mr. Johnson asks you to call at his shop if you are in need of a typewriter and he guarantees that he can please you with one of his machines. He also says, "Call us for your next order of printing!"

Pay him a visit!

GOOD REPAIR WORK DONE AT C. MOTORS

In preparation for an auto tour it does not pay to leave things to chance. Breaking down of the car enroute is of course a serious inconvenience, but when it is complicated by delay and hotel bills it also becomes a financial calamity.

Ordinary foresight suggests that the car be inspected and adjusted properly before starting. In this work, a good allround mechanic proves his value. Motorists who want to be prepared may find such men at the Circleville Motors Garage on S. Court-st. The mechanics here are of long experience and have worked on the better class of car as well as the lighter ones.

These men have unusual skill in diagnosing as well as repairing and as a result get to the trouble quickly.

This garage also sells the Buick and Pontiac, two of the best cars on the market today.

The statement that the late Buick has a greater number horsepower engine is, in itself, impressive. But no less impressive is the fact that each of the horsepower in this car is called upon to pull only about 25 pounds of car weight, compared with 35 to 40 pounds per horsepower in the average automobile. This unusually low ratio of weight to power in one of the chief reasons for the extraordinary performance of this new Buick product.

This service garage offers one of the best repair services in the city and are always ready day and night to take care of accidents.

Call at the Circleville Motors and look at the new Buicks and Pontiacs before you buy a car.

FIND METHOD OF MEANS-EXCHANGE

Measures to keep the buying power of money stable while commodity values change were submitted today by Representative W. C. Ramseyer of Iowa, as a means to prevent unemployment and periods of depression.

Ramseyer, as chairman, reported conclusions of a study by a special committee, to the Iowa State Bar Association, in an annual meeting here.

"What we have to find," he said, "is a method of arranging means of exchange and also means of payment in such a manner as to prevent violent fluctuations."

Without advocating any specific measure, the Iowa Republican submitted methods which have been proposed by economists and international figures. Among them was a plan to regulate the number of grains of gold in the dollar to meet changing price levels, as advocated by Professor Irving Fisher of Yale University.

The great need is not a gas that won't burst into flames, but prejudices that won't.

GORDON TIRE SHOP IN NEW LOCATION

The Gordon Tire Shop in its new location next to Clark's Five & Ten Cent store on W. Main-st., offers a more complete line of auto accessories than heretofore, as it has been advantaged by the access of more room.

The shop owned and operated by Ben H. Gordon, and managed by his brother, Simon Gordon, is able and ready to supply an 'auto need' at all times. The best of accessories including good batteries, spark plugs, and every other accessory needed in a machine is supplied here in the best of quality.

Mr. Gordon formerly and still operates another shop on Mound-st. where gasoline and oil products are also available. Gasoline and other products distributed by the Sinclair Oil corporation are supplied here.

Mr. Gordon specializes in offering auto plate glass installed in any car at reasonable prices. Anytime the glass by any chance is broken in your car, this shop has a special service for its repair.

At this shop the 'Vesta' battery is sold. There is a big difference in batteries and when you buy one it is worth-while to know what is on the inside. In the Vesta (Isolator) battery the plates are isolated—actually locked in place with four isolator bars in each group. No other battery has these plate locking isolators. This feature overcomes 75 per cent of battery trouble—which is caused by plates buckling or warping out of shape and touching each other. Be sure to see this battery before you purchase a new one.

Also at this accessory shop, Mr. Gordon offers the Dayton Stabilized Balloon Tires. Everyone knows that quality in tires is economy in motoring and these tires are known especially for this fact. When you have Dayton Stabilized Balloon Tires on your auto you are assured of cheaper miles, safer miles, smoother miles, and faster miles.

It takes an unusual product to win such enthusiastic endorsement as users invariably give the amazing Dayton Stabilized Balloon. Examine the tire itself.

Pay Gordon's Tire Shop a visit tomorrow and see for yourself the quality in products and service that is offered here.

CIGAR SPECIAL IS OFFERED—COOK'S

Operating a confectionery business for 38 years is the record of A. C. Cook, who has one of the best confectionery types in the city on N. Court-st., next to the Valley Public Service bus station.

He has several competent employees who help the store maintain a good standard of service, and are ready at all times to serve the public.

Mr. Cook is particularly known for his magazine and newspaper department, as he has almost every known magazine and a number of outside newspapers, always on hand. You may subscribe for any magazine at this store and you may call for it at the beginning of the month and pay for it then. This is an exclusive feature which very few confectioneries offer.

He has a very good grade of candies at reasonable prices. He can fix up nice packages for any occasion and they are all pleasing and satisfactory.

He is the local agent of United Cigar Stores, maintaining the only kind of store of its kind in this city. Everyone is aware of the fact that at this store the best of variety and quality of cigars is always offered. Any five cent cigar may be purchased here at the rate of five for 20 cents.

He always has a very good grade of pipes and tobacco on hand anytime you wish it.

Go to Cook's today for your ice cream sodas and other soft drinks and refreshments, and you will visit again soon.

The average man worries a lot more over being wrong if he discovers he has lost some money.

While there is no fool like an old fool, one doesn't hear so much about it if he has less than a million.

He has several competent employees who help the store maintain a good standard of service, and are ready at all times to serve the public.
Mr. Cook is particularly known for his magazine and newspaper department, as he has almost every known magazine and a number of outside newspapers, always on hand. You may subscribe for any magazine at this store and you may call for it at the beginning of the month and pay for it then. This is an exclusive feature which very few confectioneries offer.
He has a very good grade of candies at reasonable prices. He can fix up nice packages for any occasion and they are all pleasing and satisfactory.
He is the local agent of United Cigar Stores, maintaining the only kind of store of its kind in this city. Everyone is aware of the fact that at this store the best of variety and quality of cigars is always offered. Any five cent cigar may be purchased here at the rate of five for 20 cents.
He always has a very good grade of pipes and tobacco on hand anyone you wish it.
Go to Cook's today for your ice cream sodas and other soft drinks and refreshments, and you will visit again soon.
The average man worries a lot more over being wrong if he discovers he has lost some money.
While there is no fool like an old fool, one doesn't hear so much about it if he has less than a million.

FIND METHOD OF MEANS-EXCHANGE
Measures to keep the buying power of money stable while commodity values change were submitted today by Representative W. C. Ramseyer of Iowa, as a means to prevent unemployment and periods of depression.
Ramseyer, as chairman, reported conclusions of a study by a special committee, to the Iowa State Bar Association, in an annual meeting here.
"What we have to find," he said, "is a method of arranging means of exchange and also means of payment in such a manner as to prevent violent fluctuations."
Without advocating any specific measure, the Iowa Republican submitted methods which have been proposed by economists and international figures. Among them was a plan to regulate the number of grains of gold in the dollar to meet changing price levels as advocated by Professor Irving Fisher of Yale University.
The great need is not a gas that won't burst tires, Ramseyer, but prejudices that won't.

GORDON TIRE SHOP IN NEW LOCATION

The Gordon Tire Shop in its new location next to Clark's Five & Ten Cent store on W. Main-st., offers a more complete line of auto accessories than heretofore, as it has been advantaged by the access of more room.
The shop owned and operated by Ben H. Gordon, and managed by his brother, Simon Gordon, is able and ready to supply an "auto need" at all times. The best of accessories including good batteries, spark plugs, and every other accessory needed in a machine is supplied here in the best of quality.
Mr. Gordon formerly and still operates another shop on Mound-st. where gasoline and oil products are also available. Gasoline and other products distributed by the Sinclair Oil corporation are supplied here.
Mr. Gordon specializes in offering auto plate glass installed in any car at reasonable prices. Anytime the glass by any chance is broken in your car, this shop has a special service for its repair.
At this shop the "Vesta" battery is sold. There is a big difference in batteries and when you buy one it is worth-while to know what is on the inside. In the Vesta (Isolator) battery the plates are isolated—actually locked in place with four isolator bars in each group. No other battery has these plate locking isolators. This feature overcomes 75 per cent of battery trouble—which is caused by plates buckling or warping out of shape and touching each other. Be sure to see this battery before you purchase a new one.
Also at this accessory shop, Mr. Gordon offers the Dayton Stabilized Balloon Tires. Everyone knows that quality in tires is economy in motoring and these tires are known especially for this fact.
When you have Dayton Stabilized Balloon Tires on your auto you are assured of cheaper miles, safer miles, smoother miles, and faster miles.
It takes an unusual product to win such enthusiastic endorsement as users invariably give the amazing Dayton Stabilized Balloon. Examine the tire itself.
Pay Gordon's Tire Shop a visit tomorrow and see for yourself the quality in products and service that is offered here.

How can she be so stupid?

It is dumb stupidity for any woman to have bad breath. It offends others—ruins your socially. The worst of it is you, yourself, never know when you have it. But you can be sure that you won't have it by gargling with Listerine. It instantly ends halitosis—improves mouth hygiene, and checks infection. Lambert Pharmaceutical Company, St. Louis, Mo., U. S. LOS ANGELES, Cal., June 22.—With ceremony befitting its 108-year-old traditions the 1932 Olympic festival was announced to the nations of the world today. The organizing committee notified 35 participating countries at the program of contests for the 10th Olympiad was completed and approved for July 30 to Aug. 1, 1932.

FORMER PRESIDENT OF FRANCE TAKEN

PARIS, June 22.—Clement-Armand Fallieres, former President of France, died today at his home at Ville-neuve De-Mezin, at the age of ninety.

M. Fallieres began his political career as Mayor of Merac, in the department of Lot-Et-Garonne and in 1876 represented his department in the Chamber of Deputies. He held many offices, finally becoming President of the Republic in 1906, retiring at the end of his term in 1913.

SENATOR'S TASK OF CATCHING MACKS SEEMS HOPELESS ONE

NEW YORK, June 22.—Catching the Philadelphia Athletics is such a back-breaking task that no one would blame the Washington Senators for tossing in the sponge right now.

The Senators ran their string of consecutive victories to 12 games during the past week. But checking over the results of the past seven days, they discovered this morning that their record of five wins in seven starts cost them a full game in the American League pennant chase, for the Mackmen won five straight games during that period.

This morning Washington was four full games behind the world's champions. The Yankees, losing ground steadily, dropped three out of five during the week and are now hopelessly out of it.

The New York Giants, Brooklyn and the Phillies featured the week in the National League, each club winning four out of six games. As a result the Giants are only 2½ games behind the Cards, who won four games during the week but dropped three straight to the Braves.

SUBURBAN LOOP CHASE IS CLOSE

Ashville advanced into a tie for second place with the Westwood A. C. Sunday in the hectic Suburban Baseball League race, defeating Obetz, 17 to 6 at Obetz, while Westwood was losing in Shadeville 7-5.

New Albany, defending champion and leader in the present chase, enjoys a lead of a full game over Westwood and Ashville.

The New Albany club nosed out Groveport 3 to 1 and Lithopolis defeated Valley Crossing 11 to 8 in other Sunday Suburban contests.

of intoxication was released from the city jail to go to Columbus to work.

CAR IS FOUND

The Buick touring car belonging to Wesley Justice, E. Main-st., which was stolen from in front of the office of Dr. H. C. Allen, Sunday at 6:35 p. m., was found abandoned on the Chillicothe-pk Monday morning by members of the police department.

FLOYD IN JAIL

Clarence Floyd was arrested by members of the sheriff's office Sunday evening at the Circleville Tire & Repair Co., where he was allegedly flagging traffic and causing a disturbance.

A charge of intoxication has been filed against him in probate court.

CAR NOT HIS OWN

Harley Redd is in the county jail following his arrest by members of the sheriff's office on a charge of driving an automobile without the owner's consent, Saturday evening. He was arrested east of Ashville by officers where he was found in a car which had gone in the ditch.

NEGRO ESCAPES

The local police department was notified Monday morning to be on the look-out for William Douglas, 23, colored, who escaped from the U. S. Veterans hospital, Monday morning. He is 5 feet 6 ½ inches tall, weighs 131 pounds, and was wearing a blue suit when he left the institution.

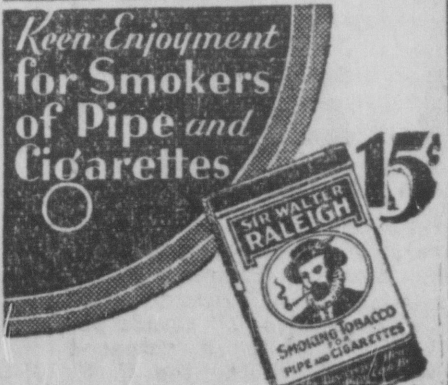

DISMISSED, NOT SETTLED

The common pleas court suit entitled Edith M. Stotler vs. E. A. Snyder as executor for the estate of Mary A. Stein, deceased, was dismissed by the plaintiff at her own cost, according to an entry filed in the office of the clerk of courts. The announcement that the case was settled with the plaintiff to receive $1,232 was erroneous.

aid Streight, 3, who was riding with three brothers, was struck and killed near Toledo. Clyde Peavler, 8, was killed in a similar accident at Cincinnati.

At Steubenville a landslide buried a steam shovel and killed B. F. Carlstrom, 55, of Huntington, W. Va.

Patrolman Forest F. Geed was killed at Akron by bullets from an automobile believed to have been carrying thieves from a hold-up.

Former Prosecutor Michael B. Underwood of Hardin-co was found hanging in a barn at his home, near Ada. Business troubles were blamed for his act.

Edward C. Gibbs, part-owner of the Medina Motors Co., of Medina, was crowned in Lake Erie off Avon Lake park when he tried to save his little daughter, and a young man and a young woman who were clinging to a capsized boat. Coast guards saved the others but were unable to rescue Gibbs.

Other automobile accident fatalities included Everett Parsons, 25, of Marietta, whose car plunged into the Muskingum river.

Columbus reported two suicides.

Mrs. Anna Voss, 51, wife of Rev. Ernest Voss, pastor of St. John's Evangelical church, hanged herself, and Carl Messner, 40, ended his life with a self-inflicted bullet wound.

Five colored occupants of a Nash sedan escaped with cuts and bruises Sunday evening on the Scioto-trail about 7 a. m. when the car in which they were riding skidded off the road into the ditch.

Names of the occupants of the car could not be learned.

They were taken to Chillicothe and given first aid by doctors there.

CROWDS SEEK

There is always room at the top without pushing anyone off.

No merit is so big that it can stand boasting.

It is other people's faults that you should forgive, not your own.

It is your own suffering that you should bear, not that of others.

The path of self-denial is the way to please of heart.

Hubby Chased?

Mrs. Peter Arno (above), prominent in New York literary life under the name of Lois "Lipstick" Long, has the unique distinction of having a husband, Peter Arno, fashioner of ultra-sophisticated cartoons, who is alleged to have been chased by Cornelius Vanderbilt and his empty pistol in a Reno melodrama, which has ended with Vanderbilt suing his wife for divorce. Peter is accused by Cornelius of paying attention to Mrs. Vanderbilt. If Vanderbilt's suit is filed, a divorce which Arno is seeking may be delayed indefinitely, authorities say.

MAN, WIFE KILLED

PELHAM MANOR, N. Y., June 22.—Wreckage of a cabin monoplane on one of the rolling fairways of the Pelham Country club here today bore mute evidence to the tragedy which yesterday took the lives of Myron F. Hutchinson, 28, of Elmira, N. Y., and his bride of less than a year.

Flying from Boston to Roosevelt Field, L. I., the plane lost altitude, struck the top limb of a tree on the golf course and dove into the turf a few yards from where hundreds of spectators had congregated to watch a golf match. Hutchinson, who was piloting the plane, was killed instantly. His wife was injured so seriously she died a short time later in New Rochelle hospital.

WASHINGTON BANK PAYS DIVIDEND

The Ohio State Bank at Washington C. H., which was closed May 12, for liquidation, will pay its first dividend of 10 per cent to depositors June 30, bank officials announced today. The dividend will total $153,000.

Mal S. Daugherty, former president of the defunct bank, is under sentence of 10 years in Ohio Penitentiary for alleged misapplication of the bank's funds. Daugherty is at liberty under bond on an appeal from conviction.

CONFESSES KILLING

AKRON, O., June 22.—Gus Tangulis, 37, of Youngstown, today allegedly confessed, police said, that he shot and killed Patrolman Forest L. Good, 36, during a street fight here last night.

The confession was written, authorities stated. Tangulis, himself badly wounded in the fight, was arrested by Patrolman Harry Munn early today, several hours after the shooting.

A second man, suspected by police as being Tangulis' companion in the attack, was captured by a radio cruiser squad shortly after the alleged confession was obtained from the Youngstown man. Identity of the second man was not revealed.

It would suit many a man if he could dodge responsibility like he does automobiles.

Clara Bow Offered All She Owned For Freedom

NEW YORK, June 22 — "Microphone-Phobia" forced Clara Bow to leave Paramount. Fear of her own voice and a nervous stammer were responsible for the cancelling of the $5,000 a week contract. It is absolutely true that Clara hates talking pictures. She has begged Paramount to release her from her contract. In one letter to Ben Schulberg, highest mogul of the West Coast studio, she even offered to allow Paramount to take all she has owned, her entire savings—which amount to a quarter of a million dollars, of which $210,000 is in a trust fund and $40,000 in other holdings - if they would allow her to retire from pictures. She promised that if she ever returned she would make pictures for no one but Paramount, if they still wanted her.

SUFFERS NERVOUS FRIGHT
Clara has had nervous fright begins thoroughly excited when telling a story. Her excitable mind works so much more rapidly than her tongue that her word's can't catch up to her. The result is equal to a stammer - although it is not an impediment of speech but a psychological reaction.

Clara has had nervous fright before every recent picture. She goes into them with a mania of fright. When some other girl is put into the production she begins to get well immediately. Within four days after Sylvia Sydney was given "the Bow lead in 'City Streets,' Clara was saying, 'I'm all right now. If only they had waited—'

And lest we forget, the safe worker, as well as the safety-minded employer, is also bound by a code of specific requirements.

Florida's Bid

NEVADA liberalized its divorce and gambling laws to attract easy spenders. But for politics Pennsylvania would have liberalized her archaic Sunday blue laws as a business booster. Every state has a group that has cooled toward the eighteenth amendment in the belief that beer and light wines would help business.

Florida now follows the trend of thought and action by legalizing horse racing and pari-mutuel betting. The legislature passed the measure over Governor Carlton's veto.

It was a business-getting, money extracting move. The citizens of Florida are not so passionately devoted to racing and gambling that they will not be denied, but they are determined to bring business to their state.

The enthusiastic citizens of the Everglades state will deny that their state's resources of climate, natural charm and agricultural opportunities are insufficient to compete with the attractions of any other part of the world, but they are not above improving upon nature when the opportunity offers itself. They do not believe in placing the whole burden upon nature.

Horse racing and betting will attract of Florida tourist and residents who have money to spend without regard for tangible return. They are a frank bid for the quick profit of a winter playground for those who make their money elsewhere and want a pleasant place to spend it.

Dissecting the Depression

FOR years the Rockefeller Foundation, the Carnegie Corporation and other similar bodies have been endowing institutions and surveys for the study and cure of disease, pestilences and scourges. Their humanitarian purpose was to save human life, alleviate human suffering and increase the happiness of mankind.

They are working toward the same ends in their present endowment of researches into the business depression and its antecedent trends and causes. If they find a cure and a preventive, they will have made as great a contribution to human happiness and security as the discovery of some germ-spreading insect. An economic collapse such as the world is now passing through is like a scourge.

Accurate diagnosis is the first step in a cure. If the germ of the ailment can be isolated, complete cure and the discovery of means of prevention are the more likely.

In this case the diagnosticians are the best the country affords. They are Eugene Meyer and Adolph C. Miller, of the Federal Reserve Board; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce; Renick W. Dunlap, assistant secretary of agriculture, and Arch W. Shaw.

The survey is generously endowed with money and amply endowed with brains. If it falls short of its goal, the goal will be beyond human reach.

Jeopardizing Life

ONE of the benefits expected from the business depression was to be marked dropping off in the traffic accident toll due to the inability of the public to buy more automobiles. The depression has appreciably reduced the motor population, but in spite of the lessening highway congestion the accident rate continues to rise.

Traffic experts attribute the disappointing situation to prevailing "hard times" and the frugality that has become general among the people. Old cars are not being traded in for new models and neither the old nor the new are receiving the frequent servicing to which they were accustomed when everybody had money to spend and was spending it.

So the highways and byways are filling with derelicts fit only for automobile graveyards and with motor vehicles with mechanical defects that demand attention. As long as they continue on the highways in this condition lives are in jeopardy.

Thrift was a joke when the country had more money than it knew what to do with, but it becomes tragic when in the name of thrift thousands of persons operate upon the public highways

"HELP YOURSELF!"

Dave Orday finds love and adventure when his plane crashes in the orange groves owned by beautiful Joan Marbury. He loves Joan but her reserve is impenetrable. Her cousin, Sally, however, is obviously in love with Dave. Gerry Flemming, Talbot Henderson and Barbara Holworthy, Dave's former fiancée, visit him. Barbara is hostile toward the girls. Under cover of darkness, Dave leaves, with Gerry and Talbot, to even a score against Mueller, neighboring plantation owner, who, in reality, is Snatch Cazzoni, a bootlegger. Mueller tried to force his attentions upon Joan and also robbed Dave and destroyed his plane. Planning to steal Mueller's plane to replace Dave's, the boys come upon a hangar containing four planes, and also discover a liquor-cutting plant. Figures loom in the darkness. Dave grapples with the nearest one. It is Joan. Unable to resist, they kiss. Heedless of danger, the girls had followed but are ordered back. On the way, Barbara, in revenge, pretends to hear Dave calling Joan. Joan goes back in search of him accompanied only by her colored mammy. Mueller finds them. At the plantation, Sally and Talbot cannot understand Barbara's nervousness. Barbara, repentant, confesses to Sally. Gerry returns alone. He and Talbot go in search of Joan.

CHAPTER XXVIII.

"I'm going with you," asserted Barbara.

Talbot, half way down the steps, came to a sudden stop. "Babe, darling," he said, "there are enough women messing around out there now. You be a good little girl and I'll buy you a big jug of Bacardi or something the first time we touch at Havana. Right now this is a man's party and you ladies aren't invited. Come on, Gerry, let's be on our way before our luck goes sour on us."

Barbara hesitated, her eyes still turned toward Gerry's car.

"We'll wait here, Miss Holworthy," said Sally, abruptly.

Talbot turned and waved cheerily.

"Don't worry, Sally," he called. "We'll have them back here, safe and sound, in three shakes of a snake's tail."

The two girls watched the men tumble into the car. The long black shape of the Hispano-Suiza lurched forward and backward, turning, then slid silently away into the night.

"Let's go in your Ford," suggested Barbara, nervously.

Sally shook her black head decisively.

"No," she said. "We've interfered enough tonight."

The Easiest Way.

Barbara lit another cigarette and began to pace back and forth across the porch. Something within her urged her to tell Sally that she knew she had acted like a beast. But apologies never came readily to Barbara's lips. Impetuous, spoiled, headstrong, she was, and those who inhabited her own little world knew it and made allowances. It had always been so much easier to make amends indirectly than by direct apology.

And who was this girl, Sally, anyway, to make Barbara Holworthy

"HELP YOURSELF!"

Just a Florida cracker, that was all. A little better-mannered than most, a little more breeding, perhaps, but a cracker just the same. What did it matter whether this Joan person fell into Mueller's hands or not? It would be well for Dave if she did. He'd feel badly about it for a few days perhaps, and then he'd fall back into the pleasant routine of yachting, traveling and flying and would forget all about her. Every boy had to fall in and out of love a dozen times before he settled down. It was a wonder that this was the first pretty face that had ever attracted him.

Just Infatuation.

Barbara flicked her cigarette out onto the lawn. Talbot, too, had been bewitched by these girls. A fool could see that he already imagined himself head over heels in love with Sally. Perhaps the cruise of the Restless had lasted too long and Dave and Talbot had become bored with the crowd. Barbara resolved to find a way to break up the yachting party in the morning. She smiled grimly to herself as she pictured the way Southampton and Palm Beach tongues would wag if it became known that Dave and Talbot had become infatuated with these two woodsy girls. But she and Gerry would keep the secret. That would be easy. Gerry probably had not noticed, anyway. He was dependable that way. Easy-going and laconic, he was a comfortable sort of person to be with. Barbara's spirits brightened. Perhaps the evening wouldn't turn out so badly after all. She would be very, very nice to Dave while the yachting party was breaking up. Then she'd go to New York and take the Bremen or the Europa and spend a few weeks at Biarritz with the Ramsom Townsends, who had a villa there. Dave would miss her. He'd sulk for a while and then, suddenly, he'd turn up at the casino looking for her, very sweet and contrite. Barbara resolved that she would be forgiving and never mention this evening to him.

Listen!

"Isn't that a plane?"

From the direction of Mueller's hangar came the distinctive drone of an airplane engine. The two girls rose, ran down the verandah steps and stood on the unkempt lawn, gazing up into the starling sky. The sound became more and more distinct until at last they could see the low-flying plane, blotting out one star after another as it roared over the tops of the orange trees.

"It's Davey!" called Barbara, excitedly, waving up at the man she loved, knowing as she did so that he could not see her against the blackness of the ground.

The plane veered, swung downward and hurtled over the roof of the old house. They could see Dave's black head peering over the side of the cockpit.

"Go and find Joan!" shrieked Sally, pointing toward Cathy.

Barbara waved frantically toward the abandoned houses. If Dave would only fly over there and bring Joan home they could all get in Gerry's car and leave this horrible place.

The thundering plane cut a sharp circle over the lawn. Its wingtip almost flicked the kunquats as it heeled over in a dizzy bank. Once again it swept over the heads of the two pointing girls. Then, with a breath-taking zoom, it rocketed off in the direction of Cathay.

Sally stood stock still, staring at Barbara with wide-open eyes. "That was Dave," she said slowly. "And Joan isn't with him! Mueller must have found her!"

Barbara's gaze shifted under the direct probing of those wide black eyes.

"Talbot said they'd have her back soon," she said weakly.

Sally turned on her heel and began to walk slowly toward the black hulk of the Ford parked at the edge of the county road. Suddenly she began to run. Reaching the little car, she snapped on the switch, raced around to its radiator and began to crank it frenziedly. It sputtered, choked and then began to shudder and shake as its engine burst into action. Sally jerked at the door handle of the driving seat.

"Wait a minute!" gasped Barbara. "I'm going too!"

"Go away from here!" sobbed Sally. "It's all your fault and I hate you!"

Barbara was already climbing into the car from the other side. "Do you think I'd be left alone in a place like this?" she panted nervously.

"You left Joan alone in a worse place than this!" Sally retorted. "Get out, I tell you. I'm not going to take you."

"I'm going to sit right here," Barbara informed her. "If you want to go yourself you're got to take me."

Sally hesitated, then climbed in. With a venomous look at the strained face beside her, she kicked at the forward-speed pedal.

Two Against One.

Dave crouched at the edge of the clearing. A few yards away was the open hangar door. Two men stood silhouetted against the light from within. One, in riding breeches and puttees, was probably a pilot, come to assure himself of the safety of the plane amid the excitement of the night. The other, who carried a shotgun and was apparently another of the guards. The pair were smoking and talking casually, stopping at intervals to listen to the vague sounds which came from the direction of Cathay.

Inch by inch Dave crept toward the hangar, hugging the shadows beside the black wall of the jungle. The unexpected presence of the two men complicated matters. He had thought the building would be empty, unguarded. Time was working against him. At any minute he might see a man in a thousand in a rough-and-tumble battle. But now it was too late. By the time he had gone after help the opportunity would probably have passed with Mueller's return.

Balance in Daily Diet Is a Health Essential

Vary Foods to Get All the Necessary Elements, Advises Authority, for the Body Is Like a Furnace Which Must Be Stoked Regularly and Equally Each Day

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

United States Senator from New York.
Former Commissioner of Health, New York City.

I HAVE frequently referred to the importance of a balanced diet. Today I want to explain more fully just what is meant by this term.

A balanced diet must carry the following factors:

First, sufficient calories to furnish heat and energy. The energy foods are the fats, starches and sugars.

In addition, it must contain inorganic salts, iron, phosphorus, lime and iodine. These elements are essential for the proper working of the body. Health cannot be maintained when they are lacking in the diet.

The food must also supply tissue building elements. These substances are known as the proteins. They are contained in milk, meat and eggs of value as "ballast" or "roughage." They contain indigestible material such as cellulose, the fibre of vegetables. This cellulose serves as a stimulant to proper elimination. It hurries the elimination of the waste products of the balanced diet.

A balanced diet should provide approximately the same fuel value each day. This means that a person should not overeat one day and fast the next day. The body is a furnace which should be stoked regularly and equally each day.

Good health cannot exist when the recognized food requirements are ignored. Since this program of food supplies and balances the needs of the body. It is aptly spoken of as a "balanced diet."

A balanced diet insures the full enjoyment of health. It protects against disease. It promotes growth and development.

Theaters

AT THE CLIFTONA

A modern young woman who dares to embark upon a globe-trotting honeymoon without benefit of clergy is Norma Shearer's glamorous heroine in "Strangers May Kiss," which was screened Sunday at the Cliftona Theatre.

Filmed from the Ursula Parrott novel, the picture paints a sweeping and racy canvas of the turbulent emotions experienced by this gorgeous creature. Never before has Miss Shearer appeared to better advantage, in the mind of this reviewer, and her characterization of the daring heroine easily ranks with her work in "The Divorcee," also written by Miss Parrott.

AT THE GRAND

"HOOK, LINE AND SINKER"—WITH BERT WHEELER AND ROBERT WOOLSEY

A very good comedy, of the usual Bert Wheeler and Robert Woolsey type. This time the pair are real estate operators, who turn in to hotel manager so as to oblige the heroine. The comedy occurs in the scenes where they are shown conducting the hotel. Gansmen learn that among the visitors are many wealthy people and decide to rob the safe, containing their valuable jewels. There is much machine-gun shooting when a rival gang comes to the hotel for the same purpose. The pair of heroes unwittingly touch machine gun levers and the guns start shooting bullets automatically, making the gangsters believe that the guns are manipulated by experts. The final comedy scene is towards the end, when the sheriff arrives at the hotel and the lights are turned on; he congratulates the two heroes for having so frightened the gangsters as to make their capture possible.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Circleville, Ohio
June 22, 1931.

Editor The Herald,
My Dear Sir:

I see and hear that we are going to have a primary election here in Circleville, on August 11th, for the purpose of nominating a suitable person to fill the office of mayor of our city. I know and have looked over the prospective candidates pretty carefully and there is one who is outstanding above all others in my estimation, as to character and qualifications. The person referred to is William B. Cady, a candidate on the Democratic ticket.

I have known Mr. Cady for several years had always found him a gentleman of the highest type. He is well educated speaks two or three different languages. He has a long and honorable career as a soldier and officer in the United States army. I am a Republican and have always voted that ticket, but as a taxpayer and citizen of the city, I feel that I am at liberty to make the above statement. So I think it is time to make a change and place a man there as Mayor of our City who we can depend upon and who will do all that is in his power to make Circleville a better and safer place in which to live, and I know of no better man than Mr. Cady.

We have had six (6) years under Mr. Fitzpatrick and four (4) years under Mr. Hedges so I think it is time for a change, and from all indications the public did not want Mr. Moore or Mr. Hens. As they both were defeated at a recent election.

There will probably be some money spent for votes at the coming nomination as is always the case, so my good people stop and think—the man who buys his way into office is only making a trade out of the voter as well as violating the laws of our State himself, and after all he has not the welfare of the City and people or community at heart. He is only going into office for the purpose of getting his hands on what change he can and protecting some clique or faction who generally put up the money to buy votes, for the protection they may get from the man they placed there illegally.

So, in conclusion, may I ask each of you to give this matter your serious consideration, let us turn out on August 11th, those of you who vote the Democrat ticket and support a man who we can depend on and who will appreciate all that we can do for him.

I am writing this letter uncollected.

Florida's Bid
NEVADA liberalized its divorce and gambling laws to attract easy spenders. But for politics Pennsylvania would have liberalized her archaic Sunday blue laws as a business booster. Every state has a group that has cooled to the belief that peer and tight whips would help business. Florida now follows the trend of thought and action by legalizing horse racing and pari-mutuel betting. The legislature passed the measure over Governor Carlton's veto.

If was a business-getting, money extracting move. The citizens of Florida are not so passionately devoted to racing and gambling that they will not be denied, but they are determined to bring business to their state. The enthusiastic citizens of the Everglades state will deny that their state's resources of climate, natural charm and agricultural opportunities are insufficient to compete with the attractions of any other part of the world, but they are not above improving upon nature when the opportunity offers itself. They do not believe in placing the whole burden upon nature.

Horse racing and betting will attract of Florida tourist and residents who have money to spend without regard for tangible return. They are a frank bid for the quick profit of a winter playground quick profit of a winter playground for those who make their money elsewhere and want a pleasant place to spend it.

Dissecting the Depression
FOR years the Rockefeller Foundation, the Carnegie Corporation and other similar bodies have been endeavoring to study and cure of disease, pestilences and scourges. Their humanitarian purpose was to save human life, alleviate human suffering and increase the happiness of mankind.

They are working toward the same ends in their present endowment of researches into the business depression and its antecedent trends and causes. If they find a cure and a preventive, they will have made as great a contribution to human happiness and security as the discovery of some germ-spreading insect. An economic collapse such as the world is now passing through is like a scourge.

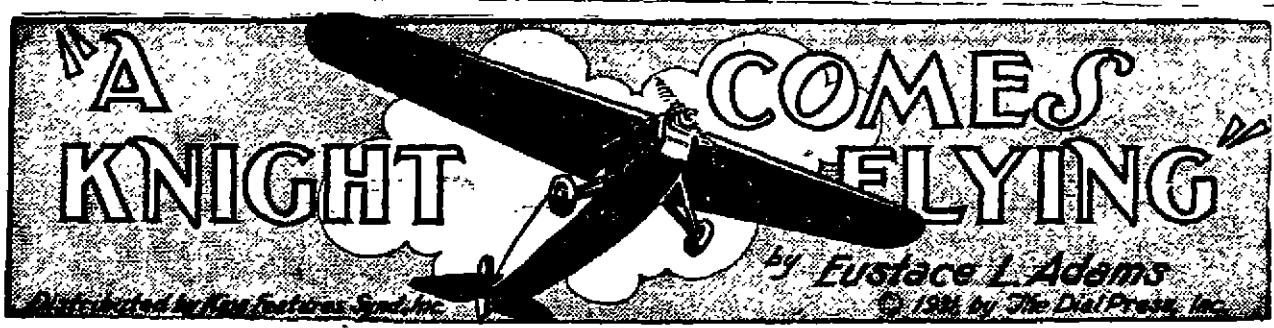

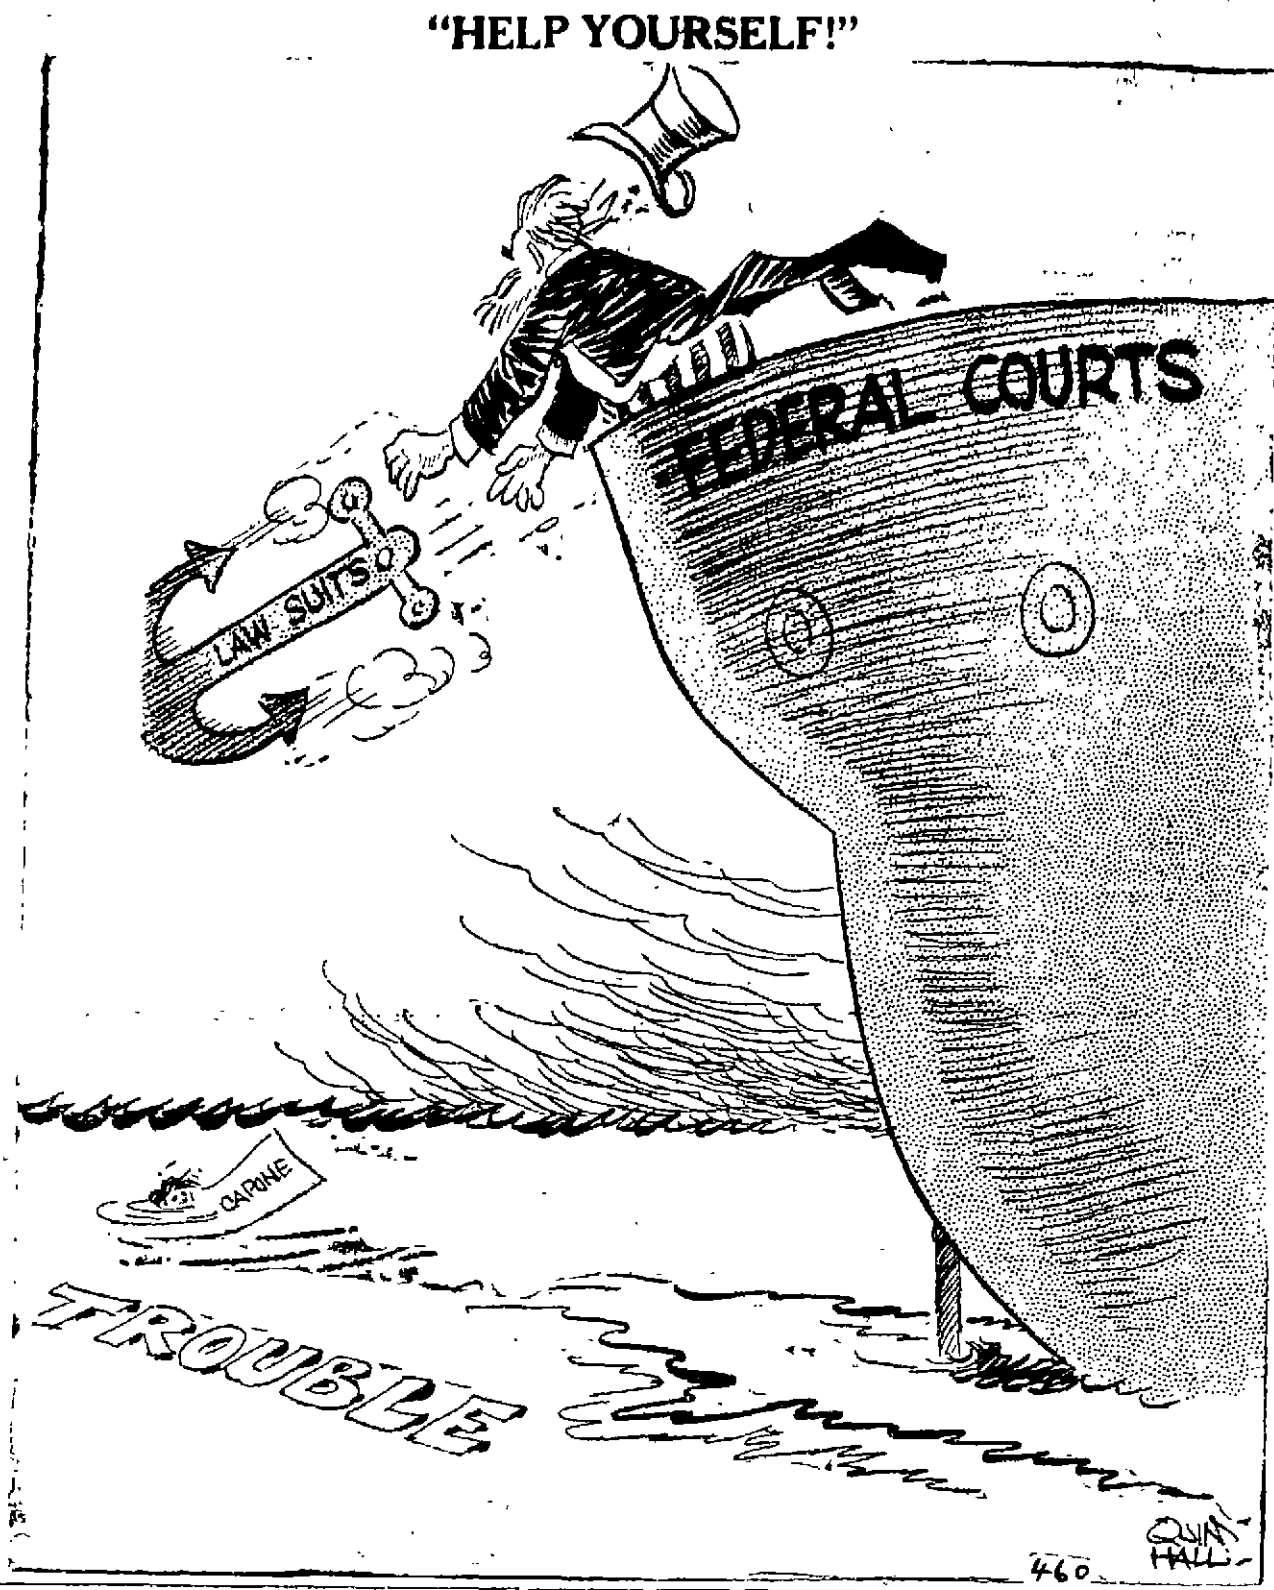

Accurate diagnosis is the first step in a cure. If the germ of the ailment can be isolated, complete cure and the discovery of means of prevention are the more likely. In this case the diagnosticians are the best the country affords. They are Eugene Meyer and Adolph C. Miller, of the Federal Reserve Board; William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor; Dr. Julius Klein, assistant secretary of commerce; Renick W. Dunlap, assistant secretary of agriculture, and Arch W. Shaw.

The survey is generously endowed with money and amply endowed with brains. If it falls short of its goal, the goal will be beyond human reach.

Jeopardizing Life
ONE of the benefits expected from the business depression was to be marked dropping off in the traffic accident toll due to the inability of the public to buy more automobiles. The depression has appreciably reduced the motor population, but in spite of the lessening highway congestion the accident rate continues to rise.

Traffic experts attribute the disappointing situation to prevailing "hard times" and the frugality that has become general among the people. Old cars are not being traded in for new models and neither the old nor the new are receiving the frequent servicing to which they were accustomed when everybody had money to spend and was spending it.

So the highways and byways are filling with derelicts fit only for automobile graveyards and with motor vehicles with mechanical defects that demand attention. As long as they continue on the highways in this condition lives are in jeopardy. Thrift was a joke when the country had more money than it knew what to do with, but it becomes tragic when in the name of thrift thousands of persons operate upon the public highways.

Dave Ordway finds love and ad-fee like humbling herself? Just venture when his plane crashes in the orange groves owned by beautiful Joan Marbury. He loves Joan but her reserve is impenetrable. Her cousin, Sally, however, is obviously in love with Dave. Gerry Flemming, Talbot Henderson and Barbara Holworthy, Dave's former fiancée, visit him. Barbara is hostile toward the boys come upon a dark, Dave leaves with Gerry and Talbot, to even a score against Mueller, neighboring plantation owner, who, in reality, is Snatch Cazzoni, a bootlegger. Mueller tried to force his attentions upon Joan and also robbed Dave and destroyed his plane. Planning to steal Mueller's plane to replace Dave's, the boys come upon a hangar containing four planes, and also discover a liquor-cutting plant. Figures loom in the darkness. Dave grapples with the nearest one. It is Joan. Unable to resist, he kisses. Heedless of danger, the girls had followed but are ordered back. On the way, Barbara, in revenge, pretends to hear Dave calling Joan. Joan goes back in search of him accompanied only by her colored mammy. Mueller finds them. At the plantation, Sally and Talbot cannot understand Barbara's nervousness. Barbara, repentant, confesses to Sally. Gerry returns alone. He and Talbot go in search of Joan.

CHAPTER XXVIII.
"I'm going with you," asserted Barbara.
Talbot, half way down the steps, came to a sudden stop. "Babe, darling," he said, "there are enough women messing around out there now. You'd be a good little girl and I'll buy you a big jug of Bacardi or something the first time we touch at Havana. Right now this is a man's party and you ladies aren't invited. Come on, Gerry, let's be on our way before our luck goes sour on us."
Barbara hesitated, her eyes still turned toward Gerry's car.
"Well wait here," Miss Holworthy said, abruptly.
Talbot turned and waved cheerily.
"Don't worry, Sally," he called. "We'll have them back here, safe and sound, in three shakes of a snake's tail."
The two girls watched the men tumble into the car. The long black shape of the Hispano-Suiza lurched forward and backward, turning, then slid silently away into the night.
"Let's go in your Ford," suggested Barbara, nervously.
Sally shook her black head decisively.
"No," she said. "We've interfered enough tonight."

The Easiest Way.
Barbara lit another cigarette and began to pace back and forth across the porch. Something within her urged her to tell Sally that she knew she had acted like a beast. But apologies never came readily to Barbara's lips. Imperious, spoiled, headstrong, she was, and those who inhabited her own little world knew it and made allowances. It had always been so much easier to make amends indirectly than by direct apology. And who was this girl, Sally, anyway, to make Barbara Holworthy wingtip almost flicking the kumquats as he heeled over in a dizzy bank. Once again it swept over the heads of the two pointing girls. Then, with a breath-taking zoom, it rocketed off in the direction of Cathay.

Sally stood stock still, staring at Barbara with wide-open eyes.
"That was Dave," she said slowly, "and Joan isn't with him! Mueller must have found her!"
Barbara's gaze shifted under the direct probing of those wide black eyes.
"Talbot said they'd have her back soon," she said weakly.
Sally turned on her heel and began to walk slowly toward the black hulk of the Ford parked at the edge of the county road. Suddenly she began to run. Reaching the little car, she snapped on the switch, raced around to its radiator and began to crank it frenziedly. It sputtered, choked and then began to shudder and shake as its engine burst into action. Sally jerked at the door handle of the driving seat.

"Wait a minute!" gasped Barbara. "I'm going too!"
"Go away from here!" sobbed Sally. "It's all your fault and I hate you!"
Barbara was already climbing into the car from the other side. "Do you think I'd be left alone in a place like this?" she panted nervously.
"You left Joan alone in a worse place than this!" Sally retorted. "Get out, I tell you. I'm not going to take you."
"I'm going to sit right here," Barbara informed her. "If you want to go yourself you're got to take me."
Sally hesitated, then climbed in. With a venomous look at the strained face beside her, she kicked at the forward-speed pedal.

Two Against One.
Dave crouched at the edge of the clearing. A few yards away was the open hangar door. Two men stood silhouetted against the light from within. One, in riding breeches and puttees, was probably a pilot, come to assure himself of the safety of the night. The other, who carried a shotgun, was apparently another of the guards. The pair were smoking and talking casually, stopping at intervals to listen to the vague sounds which came from the direction of Cathay.
Inch by inch Dave crept toward the hangar, hugging the shadows beside the black wall of the jungle. The unexpected presence of the two men complicated matters. He had thought the building would be empty, unguarded. Time was working against him. At any minute Mueller and his men might give up searching the now-deserted dwellings and come to the field. He cursed himself for having taken so much for granted. Had he permitted Gerry to have accompanied him, the two would have disposed of these men on watch in the hangar. Drunk or sober, Gerry was one man in a thousand in a rough-and-tumble battle. But now it was too late. By the time he had gone after help the opportunity would probably have passed with Mueller's return.

Clara Bow Offered All She Owned For Freedom

NEW YORK, June 22 — "Microphone-Phobia" forced Clara Bow to leave Paramount. Fear of her own voice and a nervous stammer were responsible for the cancelling of the $5,000 a week contract.

It is absolutely true that Clara Bow has had nervous fright before every recent picture. She has begged Paramount to release her from her contract. In one letter to Ben Schulberg, highest mogul of the West Coast studio, she even offered to allow Paramount to take all she has owned, her entire savings—which amount to a quarter of a million dollars, of which $210,000 is in a trust fund and $40,000 in other holdings—if they would allow her to retire from pictures. She promised that if she ever returned she would make pictures for no one but Paramount, if they still wanted her.

Return Of Arbuckle To Screen Voiced Pro, Con

NEW YORK, June 22.—The motion picture public is practically unanimous for the return to the screen of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, according to a statement issued, announcing receipt of thousands of letters from movie-goers in all parts of the United States in response to the question of his return which 'Photoplay' raised in its March issue and which its editor, James R. Quirk, sent out in a nation-wide radio broadcast.

Arbuckle was barred from the screen ten years ago after being charged with responsibility for the death of Virginia Rapp during a party in a San Francisco hotel, and despite the fact that he was acquitted after three separate trials. In recent years he has been working in Hollywood studios under a fictitious name in minor capacity. Commenting upon the nation-wide response from the magazine's readers, Mr. Quirk says: "The only dissenters were the professional moralists who were responsible for having Arbuckle barred

MASTER OF COMEDY

"There is no question that Arbuckle is one of the greatest masters of picture comedy in Hollywood and in these times we need laughter. Arbuckle is entitled to an opportunity to work at the only kind of work he knows, and to do that work under his own name."

"The courts acquitted Arbuckle—the public wants to give him a chance. It's up to some producer to put Roscoe Arbuckle's name on the screen as a writer or director."

The magazine quotes Matthew Brady, San Francisco attorney who conducted a bitter prosecution of Arbuckle through three trials, as follows:

"The prosecution at the time of the trial gave to the jury and the court every bit of evidence it had against him. After three trials the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. After that absolute Arbuckle should be entitled to make his own living in his own way."

August Fritz, foreman of the first jury that tried Arbuckle, says, according to Photoplay: "He is more than entitled to an opportunity to resume his theatrical career. If it had not been for one woman, he would have walked out of court a free man. He has taken a lot of undeserved punishment."

Nat Friedman, juror in the second trial, who voted guilty, says: "I feel that Arbuckle is a victim of circumstances. He has every right to use his own name in moving pictures and make his own income."

Canon William S. Chase, reform leader, says: "I have no personal animosity toward this man, but I think it very unwise to have him restored at this time to what I consider a very important moral influence in this country."

Arbuckle, himself, is quoted as follows: "I have no desire to return as an actor. In the dark hours of my life it was a consolation to know that I had given happiness to millions of people. There doesn't seem to be much chance of happiness for me. No man can live and be happy without work, and all I want is to be permitted to use whatever talents and training I have in the writing and direction of pictures under my own name."

DETROIT

school where Col. Charles Lindbergh's mother teaches chemistry. We soon reach Grand Circus park to view the Edison Memorial Fountain dedicated during the Golden Jubilee in commemoration of Mr. Edison's successful light experiments.

From Grand Circus park go down Woodward avenue, Detroit's busiest thoroughfare, into the heart of commerce where commodities from all over the world find markets in Detroit's largest department stores. Then past the City Hall, erected in 1868 and rich in history and tradition. Out Fort street we pass the Penobscot building, fifty stories of stone and steel, marking the site of the old stockade and old French Military burying ground; the Detroit post office; Detroit club; Athletic club; Free Press building, name of Michigan's oldest newspaper; the Detroit New building, home of the News, which carries more advertising lineage than any other newspaper in the world.

We also see the new Union Produce Terminal, a gigantic fruit and vegetable market with its ten miles of side track, and loading docks to accommodate 400 trucks. Close by is the Fisher Fleetwood body plant, the largest automobile body plant in existence. We also view the United States entrance to the new Ambassador bridge—whose American terminal covers six acres of land. The main span of the bridge between the towers is 1850 feet in length the longest suspension bridge in the world.

By this time the Herald party has just started on the first day's ride and these places of interest mentioned are merely enroute. There will not be an idle moment, as every mile of the trip has something worthwhile to engage one's attention, and our competent guide will see that nothing is overlooked.

The MAYTAG BUILT WITH THE ENGINEERING REFINEMENT OF THE FINEST AUTOMOBILE

Until you have tried a Maytag, you cannot appreciate what such a feature as the auto-type shift lever means to you. It engages smoothly and quietly to start or stop the water action. It may be conveniently operated from any side of the tub. The action of the lever is so smooth that it is possible to move the lever from the "on" or "off" position by a light push of the forearm or with the back of the hand, when the hands are wet and soapy. This feature is typical of refinements throughout the Maytag.

"We drove to where there was a bridge over an irrigation ditch. I accused her of talking about me and we argued for several hours. Return Of Arbuckle To Screen Voiced Pro, Con

NEW YORK, June 22.—The motion picture public is practically unanimous for the return to the screen of Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, according to a statement issued, announcing receipt of thousands of letters from movie-goers in all parts of the United States in response to the question of his return which 'Photoplay' raised in its March issue and which its editor, James R. Quirk, sent out in a nation-wide radio broadcast.

Arbuckle was barred from the screen ten years ago after being charged with responsibility for the death of Virginia Rapp during a party in a San Francisco hotel, and despite the fact that he was acquitted after three separate trials. In recent years he has been working in Hollywood studios under a fictitious name in minor capacity.

Commenting upon the nationwide response from the magazine's readers, Mr. Quirk says: "The only dissenters were the professional moralists who were responsible for having Arbuckle barred from the screen ten years ago. The answer from the public is unanimous: 'Let Arbuckle come back.'

MASTER OF COMEDY

"There is no question that Arbuckle is one of the greatest masters of picture comedy in Hollywood and in these times we need laughter. Arbuckle is entitled to an opportunity to work at the only kind of work he knows, and to do that work under his own name."

"The courts acquitted Arbuckle—the public wants to give him a chance. It's up to some producer to put Roscoe Arbuckle's name on the screen as a writer or director."

The magazine quotes Matthew Brady, San Francisco attorney who conducted a bitter prosecution of Arbuckle through three trials, as follows:

"The prosecution at the time of the trial gave to the jury and the court every bit of evidence it had against him. After three trials the jury brought in a verdict of not guilty. After that absolution Arbuckle should be entitled to make his own living in his own way."

August Fritz, foreman of the first jury that tried Arbuckle, says, according to Photoplay: "He is more than entitled to an opportunity to resume his theatrical career. If it had not been for one woman, he would have walked out of court a free man. He has taken a lot of undeserved punishment."

VICTIM OF CIRCUMSTANCES

Nat Friedman, juror in the second trial, who voted guilty, says: "I feel that Arbuckle is a victim of circumstances. He has every right to use his own name in moving pictures and make his own income."

Canon William S. Chase, reform leader, says: "I have no personal animosity toward this man, but I think it very unwise to have him restored at this time to what I consider a very important moral influence in this country."

Arbuckle, himself, is quoted as follows: "I have no desire to return as an actor. In the dark hours of my life it was a consolation to know that I had given happiness to millions of people. There doesn't seem to be much chance of happiness for me. No man can live and be happy without work, and all I want is to be permitted to use whatever talents and training I have in the writing and direction of pictures under my own name."

DETROIT

school where Col. Charles Lindbergh's mother teaches chemistry. We soon reach Grand Circus park to view the Edison Memorial Fountain dedicated during the Golden Jubilee in commemoration of Mr. Edison's successful light experiments.

From Grand Circus park go down Woodward avenue, Detroit's busiest thoroughfare, into the heart of commerce where commodities from all over the world find markets in Detroit's largest department stores. Then past the City Hall, erected in 1868 and rich in history and tradition. Out Fort street we pass the Penobscot building, fifty stories of stone and steel, marking the site of the old stockade and old French Military burying ground; the Detroit post office; Detroit club; Athletic club; Free Press building, home of Michigan's oldest newspaper; the Detroit New building, home of the News, which carries more advertising lineage than any other newspaper in the world.

We also see the new Union Produce Terminal, a gigantic fruit and vegetable market with its ten miles of side track, and loading docks to accommodate 400 trucks. Close by is the Fisher Fleetwood body plant, the largest automobile body plant in existence. We also view the United States entrance to the new Ambassador bridge—whose American terminal covers six acres of land. The main span of the bridge between the towers is 1850 feet in length the longest suspension bridge in the world.

By this time the Herald party has just started on the first day's ride and these places of interest mentioned are merely enroute. There will not be an idle moment, as every mile of the trip has something worthwhile to engage one's attention, and our competent guide will see that nothing is overlooked.

The MAYTAG BUILT WITH THE ENGINEERING REFINEMENT OF THE FINEST AUTOMOBILE

Until you have tried a Maytag, you cannot appreciate what such a feature as the auto-type shift lever means to you. It engages smoothly and quietly to start or stop the water action. It may be conveniently operated from any side of the tub. The action of the lever is so smooth that it is possible to move the lever from the "on" or "off" position by a light push of the fore-arm or with the back of the hand, when the hands are wet and soapy. This feature is typical of refinements throughout the Maytag.

PHONE for a Maytag washer or ironer, or both, on free trial. If the Maytag doesn't sell itself, don't keep it. Divided payments you'll never miss.
